

THIS GLORY LIKE WILD CHASE OF LESLIE CARTER. AN EMPTY AUTO.

Mary Hall, of "The Christian" Company, Now Playing Here, Wears Red Wig and Acts Like "Zaza."

HANDSOME BYRON DOUGLASS

New Beauty Comes to Town with the Lilliputians in the Person of Inez Lewis, Who is a Dream from Council Bluffs.

The moon-faced brewer in "The Prince of Eisen" isn't the only visitor from Csin-ol-natta. Witness the Pike company, bravely bearing up under "The Christian" at the West End Theatre. The Pike company is a Cincinnati institution. While Broadway has passed the stage of feeling an irresistible impulse to drop offerings into the contribution plate of "The Christian," Harlem appears to be still in the spirit of box-office conversion. In proof of which we sat yesterday afternoon between two ladies who shed sympathetic tears in utter disregard of laundry bills. Most of the tears paid tribute to the emotional art of Mary Hall.

Reminded Mrs. Carter. In her red wig, and her gold tooth to watch, Miss Hall bore a marked resemblance to Mrs. Carter. For all of which we were deeply grateful, since it helped us forget the other Hall and mawkish mottoes on the church walls. Given to a sinner, it isn't pleasant to see religion commercialized.

Nature has endowed Miss Hall with many gifts, but it rather overdid it. Being in the manner of voice, Miss Hall should have a talk with her voice, and tell it not to make so much noise.

Byron Douglass was the John Storm. Mr. Douglass was the leading man of a New York stock company his mail would probably be loaded with sweet-scented notes.

Emily Melville was a clever Mrs. Challenger, at Evelyn Brodsky struck a true note of pathos in the part of poor Polly Brown.

A Beauty in Posterland. "In Posterland" there lives the prettiest little lady ever seen. A new beauty this one, and young—just the age of "Pretty Peggy."

The Royal Lilliputians picked her up in Council Bluffs, Ia., even though beauty isn't very good picking there, and have placed her charms and her talents on view at the Fourteenth Street Theatre.

Inez Lewis is the name of this latest and most diminutive queen of the foot-lights. She has none of the pathetic shortcomings of the Lilliputian. She is simply a condensed copy of a feminine edition de luxe. She appears in several costumes and characters. First, as a dainty as a bit of flowered silk, in the guise of a Chinese maiden; then as a naughty prima donna in evening gown, and again as a Spanish dancer in black and yellow. All the pictures which the stage has ever seen are hers.

Fine Miss Lewis has taken as her motto, "Beauty is a property." She is one of the prizes which sometimes come in small packages. Fourteenth street admires her; Broadway would go wild over her.

"In Posterland" doesn't differ materially from previous entertainments. The Royal Lilliputians have given. Led by droll Major Loyly, who has an Irish brogue which smacks of the "ould sod," they still cut their adorable, amusing capers and keep the full-grown audience in roars of laughter.

The humor of these little people is forever taking a well-aimed turn. They are taking a roundabout way on heads and shoulders, and an eight-foot policeman is kept busy turning three acts dragging off to jail two offenders against the peace and dignity of Posterland.

An Advertising Battle. Hostilities assumed a serious phase at one time when a Gold Powder Tint gave Foxey Graham, a dandy, a bad time. The stomach with a "property" turkey. In tranquil moments little Miss Lewis would come shyly out, and then it was that the spirit of fairness seemed to dwell "In Posterland."

ROGERS SUES ACTORS' FUND. MILLIONAIRE AS A FIRE FIGHTER.

The One-Time Husband of Minnie Palmer at Odds with Organization Over the Raffle of His Famous Diamond.

"Yours Merryly" John R. Rogers, a theatrical manager, who was once the manager and husband of Minnie Palmer, has brought suit in the Supreme Court against the Actors' Fund of America to secure an accounting of the proceeds of a raffle of a diamond which for many years was as closely associated with his theatrical fortunes as his well-known signature. The gem, according to his estimate, was worth $100,000, not taking into account $12,000 which he claims to have spent in giving it and himself joint notoriety.

It is a 42-2 karat gem, set on a pivot, and when the mechanism revolved the effect was dazzling. The diamond had been in the hands of Grover Cleveland once more it at an inaugural ball gained for it the name of the Cleveland diamond.

Mr. Rogers has been willing and anxious to sell the stone of late years and agreed to take $10,000 in cash for it at one time. Then he placed it with the Actors' Fund for disposal, the plan being to have it raffled to raise money to be sold at each and every Rogers and to divide the proceeds equally.

HORSE HIRED TO CATCH IT.

Made Suburban Time, but Had a Hard Job Even at That, While Almost a Whole Township Turned Out in Excitement.

John Gilpin, Phil Sheridan, Paul Revere and Tod Sloane may all come down off the flying rings. The "gold darndest," "dod beatness" record for fancy fast riding astride a nag was clicked off today on the old Williamsburg turnpike just back of Richmond Hill.

According to St. Harper, who was bringing to town a lot of Rose potatoes that had sprouts on 'em three feet long, the crazy horseman went a mile in seventy seconds, "b'gee!" Joel Gump "seen" the spring, too, and before he could shift a juicy quid of Vinco plug from port to starboard the racer had "went fur as from here to College Point."

Township Joined in Chase. Three dozen market drivers, two constables, an ex-sheriff, two physicians, besides women and little children, and all the dogs north of parallel 94° and in behind and chased the man that chased the automobile.

"Who be you?" cried Constable Hank Haffles, "n what tarnation you rip tearin' along this road so all fired fast for? By gosh! have a notion take you inter custody! You want kill that horse!"

"S all right," gasped the record breaker as he flopped on the road back out of breath and under the cross fire of indignant questions.

"Don't you understand? I was going New York in automobile—blee ran off while I was drivin'—and got horse catch it—see? Name? Name's William R. N. Bishop, Roslyn, my card. Pay all damages, don't say 'n' breath."

"Say, Mr. Bishop, if that's your kee-reet name?"

How It All Happened. "His name, sure, but," said Jim Rand, the blacksmith, "I can see them identical letters on the back of his disreputable machine."

Well, then, Mr. Bishop, you look like a realiable man. If you tell me that that there peak machine could run three miles on this road, making all them turns, without anybody's help, I'll bet you may go back to the hotel where I hired the horse. All I know is that the bubble stopped and while I was out looking it over it suddenly started. I ran two blocks, saw I couldn't overtake it and so I hired this horse from the hotel keeper."

Three farmers backed away when the bubble started violently. "Something mighty durn queer about all this," said Joel Gump. "I ain't undertakin' to explain it. I been livin' on Long Island high onto fifty year, seen a mule with six legs once and a dog with a human face, but I never believed one of these here machines could a steered hisself."

In Again Away Again. "Mr. Bishop could offer no explanation and before the constable could decide whether or not the law had been violated he turned the horse over to a hostler, jumped in his automobile and hurried on to New York.

There will be a meeting of the Town Council in Jamaica today for the purpose of deciding some legal reform. The hotel keeper says he will enter the horse in the Suburban or else sell him to William C. Whitney.

FIERCE SOMERVILLE FIRE. Two Factories Burned and Boston and Cambridge Sent Apparatus.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., March 24.—The table factory of Brown & Simmons and an adjoining building, occupied by Hyman Hillson, manufacturer of tinware, gas and oil stoves, were burned this morning.

Both the Cambridge both sent fire apparatus to assist the Somerville department as the blaze was a fierce one. The spirit of three stories in height and covered considerable area.

Archer Huntington, Adopted Son of Late Collis P. Huntington, Strived to Check Fire That Burned Bathhouses.

A patrol wagon brought the reserves of Westchester. The nearest engine is several miles away, and was not brought out. Some of the outlying buildings on the Huntington estate were slightly damaged.

Henry Morgenthau's splendid new cottage at South Elmhurst, N. Y., burned last night. The building was not yet completed, and the loss is estimated at $75,000. The blaze was discovered by the operator in the Elmhurst telephone exchange, who notified the fire departments at Aubrey Park and Long Branch.

If You Will, but That

Don't Cure Drunkenness!

Drunkenness is a disease and is so recognized by the medical profession. The diseased condition of the organs of the body and nerves of the stomach demands more than will-power to cure. "ORRINE" will positively destroy all craving and desire for liquor. This remedy is prepared on well-known medical principles and is introduced by Dr. Wm. C. F. U. Y. M. C. A., a celebrated physician, public men and temperance societies. "ORRINE" is tasteless, odorless, colorless, and can be given without the patient's knowledge. In water, milk, tea or coffee. It cures the diseased stomach and gives a hearty appetite and good digestion. Stooly nerves and normal conditions such as sleep is used. THE CRAVING FOR LIQUOR NEVER RETURNS. We guarantee the above and REFUND THE MONEY. If "ORRINE" fails to destroy all desire for liquor, sealed bottles mailed free on request. Thomas S. Hopkings, East Commander of the G. A. R., Washington, D. # RESTAURANT Eighth Floor. None finer equipped in the world. None better able to serve you promptly and well—and at modest cost.

The Highest Class of Merchandise AND AT A REASONABLE PROFIT.

The art of advertising has become so scientific that most merchandise is supposedly given away, and the merchant is in business for fun.

It is absurd to believe, or to be misled into the belief, that goods are sold at a loss, or that stores live and survive without a profit to themselves. True, very often there is a loss to some one; it may be the manufacturer, the importer, the jobber, or the merchant himself—due to any one of a thousand causes; but it is less often the merchant who suffers. He is the one who comes to the relief—becomes a merchant in fact as well as in name.

In this business we take losses, like every one else—and we take profits; but these profits are based on the widest margin of fairness to those who trade here.

We look first to have things that other stores cannot get. Our idea is to couple variety with exclusiveness; style with good taste; to have within the walls of this beautiful building everything you ask for or wish for, and to
